

494

Theodoric could honor Burgundians with a marriage. One object of the deal, which was probably settled in 494, was the return of those Italians whom the Burgundians had carried off in 490/491.

As the purchase price Theodoric offered his second daughter OSTROGOTHU - the Ostrogothic AREABONE - through whose hand he tried to bind ^{to} himself SIGISMUND, the son of the Burgundian King. The perpetrated between the three most important Gallic Kingdoms, this down a considerable number of other Gallic tribes in the northwestern border; the Burgundians had suffered heavy losses in the great battle near 4507-5090

494AD

Bishop GELASIUS replaced LUPERCALIA with the Feast of Purification of Virgin held on Feb. 15; the same day

C494-565

BELISARIUS. Byzantine general who as servant of JUSTINIAN I conquered the Vandals in Africa and the Ostrogoths in Italy

494

The Visigothic king ^{Leovic II} married THIUDIGOT(H)O, the daughter of Theodoric the great

Their son received the name AMALARIC in recognition of the family of his mother

494

In Spain in 494 & again in 497 we can observe the first real signs of a Visigothic immigration. Previously this large country had been a sort of a mix between a crime colony and a military training ground.

Pope St Gelasius I declared in a letter to Emperor Anastasius that the pope had power and authority over the emperor in spiritual matters.